SEMI-WEEKLY INTELLIGENCER, PUBLISHED EYELT WEDNESDAY AND SATURDAY

THE WEEKLY INTELLIGENCER,

occasion the message and from a person to be said that nothing in relation that he should be said that nothing in relation that in political conventions, upon the huntings, though first and the just measure of their rights and they are not to any syndicate or organization which notrols or direct the foreign stockholders. For it is understood that the eis now an organization which absolutely controls, directs and governs the utterest of their principals or the settual warers of the bonds, and it may well be at the syndicate or spent is thoroughly famed as to all of these matters, while principal remains entirely in the dark therefore, this estilement has been ly enacted, therefore the actual warers of the principals or the settual warers of the principals or the settual warers of the principals or the settual warers of their principals or the settual warers of the principals or the settual warers of the principals or the settual warers of the principals or the settual warers of their principals or the settual warers of the princip fair play of our people that every effort should be made to acquaint our creditors with the forms of settlement offered before concluding they are unwilling to accept it. But it is wan to recapitulate the difficulties of the situation unless it be with the purpose of suggesting a remedy. After a most carrial consideration of the situation, with a full sense of the official obligation, with a consciousness of the difficulties which surround us, with a knowledge that the peril to the settlement which we have decreed is serious, I carrestly recommend to the General Assembly of Virginia the appointment of a commission whose duties shall be plainly defined, whose powers shall be carefully prescribed, guarded, and limited, that no misconception be indulged in on the part of any one. Euch a commission should only be empowered to explain the settlement of 1881 and 1882 to the creditors and point out that which addresses itself to their interests as well as the interests of the State. It should be clethed with no other power and have no other duties to periorm but to urge them to accede to the settlement Virginia has decreed to represent how fulle had been their efforts in the past to resist the determination of our people, and that the future held out to them only the prospect of interminable litigation, injurious alike to them and to us; that the achievement of mere dilutory friumphs in the courts in fraught with no substantial adventages to the diligants on either side. It would be the duty of the commission to point out to them the cast untried and unexpended power which resides in a united and resolute people, and caution their aguitant the danger of arousing a public sentiment which might be forgetful of all sense of justice, and taking counsed only from passion desired the inference a which we are now striving to protect.

As a member of that the actual to the suited the case play interested into thought of the official to the original strength in the courts of the official to the proper of the official to the pr to protect.

As a selleved that if those holding the outstanding indebtedness of the State could meet, through their committee, face to face, such a commission here in Virinia oreals where, and hear and see for themselves, be confronted by the stubborn facts as they exist at present, and be impressed with the uncertainty which dwells in the future and arises from the unsettled problem which combainly exapperates and harasses the public mind by fresh decisions of the courts, they would be willing to lund such outstanding indebtedness into the bonds of this settlement. Such action upon their part solves the problem and terminates the agitation. Virginia will act in good faith—will pay her debt thus ascertained and acquiesced in by both contracting parties—because her revenues will prove abundant to do so without increasing the burdens upon the poople.

Since "Virginia has decreed" a settleginia orgelaswhere, and hear and see for Since "Virginia has decreed" a settlement, bond-holders may as well fall in line. Triumphs in the Supreme Court of the United States being declared illusory; there is no need of looking in that direction for any substantial thing. Besides, there is "the vast untried, unexpended power of a united and resolute people," and a "public sentiment which might be forgetfuleof all sense of justice" and "take counsel only of passion." Governor Lee when he wrote doubtless had in mind that shrewd lawyer who said: "Gentlemen, don't take this red-handed murderer out of court and hang him—lynch law is always to be condemned—but if you do hang him, for the fair fame of our county make a clean job of it!"

If these arguments are good for Virginia ay against her bond holders, would they Governor Lee when he wrote doubtless as against her bond holders, would they not apply as well in behalf of West Virginia il this State were called upon to pay over money to the old State, under forced settlement, against the will of the people of West Virginia? If there is "a vast untried and unexpended power" in Virginia, is it not reasonable to assume that something of the same kind is to be found in West Virginia? If the people of Virginia are "exasperated and harrassed" by decisions of the courts affecting a debt question, might not a like cause create like ignitation in West Virginia? It is not at all probable that the people of West Virginia would resist the execution of the judgement of any competent court, but that which is sauce for the old goose ought to be sauce for the young gander. If Virginia is going to be a party to the Wall street assault on West Virginia, her Governor ought not to put such thoughts into the heads of West Virginians. Governor Lee was thinking, probably, of the Wall street syndicate when he spoke of the agent who knows it all and keeps his principals in the dark

I announced in the January meeting that my company had informed me in a stockholder's meeting, that the policy of last year should change in '86, and I would be expected to conform, as President, to the policy indicated by the new Board of Directors for the ensuing year—all of which was plainly made known, and the Association was fully aware of the lasts.

and the Association was fully awars of the facts.

The whole course of the Western Nail Association during my connection with it has been one of discord and district of each other, and suspicions of even the best intentions and lacking in sympathy with their employes. From such company I can truly say, "Good Lord, deliver me." My action is one directed by stockhold-

R. S. Day, of Watsonville, Santa Oruz
Co., California, writes February 3, 1885;
When my wife was seventy-three years old she was troubled with a very bad cough, and it looked as if she would die with consumption. She would not call in a doctor, but commenced taking Brandreth's Pills, weeks ahe was completely cured, and her health is now very good, and am sure the pills have prolonged her life as well as my own, for I have used them forty years,
